ATTACHMENT A:
RESOLUTION TO ADOPT LEAD PIPE REPLACEMENT PROGRAM POLICY
REGARDING THE USE OF HYDROVAC AND EXCAVATIONS

As Recommended by the creators of the University of Michigan Service Line Material Predictive Model (“the Predictive Model”), Dr. Eric Schwartz and Dr. Jake Abernethy:

Re: Instructions for the selection of homes for replacement

In order to determine whether a home will receive a full service line replacement each home must undergo the following sequence of decision rules:

- 1) If the home is predicted to have a lead or galvanized service line with a probability of at least 10%, according to the Predictive Model, then the home will receive a full service line replacement.
- 2) If the Predictive Model deems this property to have a lead or galvanized service line with probability less than 10%, meaning the service line is likely to only be comprised of copper, then the home will receive a hydrovac inspection at the curb stop, to determine the materials of public and private service lines. If a lead or galvanized line is found in either the public or private line, then the home will receive a service line replacement.
- 3) If the hydrovac inspection at the curb stop finds copper on both the public and the private portions as they appear at the curbstop, then the hydrovac inspection crew should do all of the following to further verify the materials: (a) use the hydrovac to dig a wider hole, farther along the length of the public and private portions of the service line, and (b) do an in-home inspection of the private portion of the service line. These efforts will determine whether any smaller portions of lead or galvanized pipes, such as spliced lines, exist at the property. If any such portion of lead or galvanized pipes is detected, the home will receive a full excavation.
- 4) Otherwise, if no lead or galvanized material is detected in any of these above procedures, then the home will not receive a full service line excavation.
