ENGINEERING SERVICES

INFLUENT STRUCTURE REHABILITATION

Flint Water Pollution Control
G-4652 Beecher Road
Flint, Michigan

The City of Flint (City) has three main pumping stations that convey all of the sewage from the collection system to the Water Pollution Control Plant (WPC). All three feed the sewage into an equalization basin known as the Influent Box. The Influent Structure/Box is a rectangular prism shaped tank, with internal dimensions of 40 feet tall, 20 feet long, and 12 feet wide. It was constructed in the early 1960s to receive and combine all sewage flows, then direct them to grit chambers. Originally, there was a single grit tank battery (now called Battery A). During the 1970s, a second battery, Battery B, was added. Unfortunately, in constructing these facilities, no isolation gates nor other means were included to separate the flows to the two batteries or shut off either flow for maintenance and repair.

This has now become a problem, and the City has decided to proceed with the renovation of the Influent Structure at the same time it refurbishes the A-Grit facilities. In the course of the re-engineering of the Battery A-Grit system, the Wade Trim - Hubbell, Roth & Clark team determined that the existing 54 inch steel pipe feeding Battery A from the Influent Box is severely corroded within the basement of the A-Grit Building. It is essential that this pipe be replaced or rehabilitated concurrently with the Battery A-Grit Rehabilitation project due to its location directly above the grit pumps and piping which will be replaced as part of that project. Additionally, the existing flow meter located in this section of pipe must be replaced with a more accurate and reliable meter. This work must be done in conjunction with the Battery A-Grit project due to construction sequencing requirements. Both projects can only be performed when Battery A-Grit is removed from service.

In addition, the Wade Trim - Hubbell, Roth & Clark team has evaluated and assessed the condition of the existing Influent Structure from which the 54-inch pipe originates. Since there is no existing shutoff valve for this pipe, the structure will need to be temporarily taken off-line to perform the proposed work on the 54-inch line, which is necessary to completely isolate Battery A-Grit. The Influent Structure is the only place where this isolation can be accomplished. Findings from the evaluation revealed substantial compromised structural integrity of the system due to deterioration from exposure to the severe wastewater environment since its construction (i.e., raw sewage). Further, as part of a condition assessment the limited visual inspection performed also revealed that there was significant deterioration above the observed water line, including spalling, cracking, exposed aggregate material, and significant deterioration of metal manhole rungs. The majority of this deterioration is due to hydrogen sulfide attack. Anecdotal information from WPC staff also indicated that water has been observed rushing between the bricks of the south architectural wall of the structure in the past, indicating that water had been getting in between the structural concrete wall and the outer architectural wall.

Although the work will have to be closely coordinated with that of the Battery A-Grit Rehabilitation project itself, the City has decided to treat the engineering of the Influent Structure Rehabilitation as a separate project. This separate project involves the engineering of the structure as envisioned in the above Project Report, complete with its 54-inch conveyance pipe from the structure to the Battery A-Grit, flow meter, and new isolation valves.

Most of the necessary drawings of the existing pumping station, piping, and manholes may be obtained from the City of Flint Water Pollution Control, Wastewater Treatment Plant (WWTP) records. The City of Flint will provide the Engineering Consultant a paper copy of all existing records the Consultant determines would be useful in their work. However, the City does not warrant that the historical records are completely adequate, accurate or that they reflect the existing conditions.

Scope of Services - The Engineering Consultant shall perform the following services:

A. Design

The Consultant shall prepare Design and Construction documents consisting of Civil, Structural, Architectural, Mechanical, Electrical, and Instrumentation drawing sheets and specifications. The Construction Documents shall be developed for the purpose of bidding the construction of the facilities and acquiring a MDEQ Part 41 Construction Permit for the above improvements. Upon MDEQ approval, and receipt of the Permit, the documents shall be used to competitively bid the project for construction. The Consultant shall ensure that the Construction Documents result in a complete and operational system as described above. The design shall incorporate the following project elements:

1. Rehabilitation of the influent structure itself, including recoating the existing concrete walls above the water line, which currently show signs of extreme degradation and deterioration due to hydrogen sulfide (i.e., H₂S) attack;
2. Replacement of the existing removable covers on top of the influent structure and recoating the top slab/repairing the bricks;
3. Installation of a 54-inch and 60-inch fabricated stainless-steel sluice gate on the inside wall of the influent structure to enable WPCF staff to shut off flow to either effluent pipe; and
4. Remove, plug, or add a stop log to a nearby buried interconnection between the 54-inch and 60-inch pipes to Grit Battery A and B, which was recently discovered. The interconnection does not presently appear to include any isolation valving.

5. Rehabilitate the existing 54-inch pipe to Grit Battery A using a Cured-in-Place Pipe or similar technology, and installation of a new 54" magnetic flowmeter in the same line.
6. Engineering of bypass pumping solution needed for enabling construction work on both the Influent Structure and A-Grit.

B. Bidding Support Services

The Consultant shall prepare appropriate bid documents, conduct a prebid meeting with potential contractors, respond to questions during the bidding process, and prepare addenda as required during the course of bidding. The Consultant shall distribute minutes and responses to questions raised at the meeting. The Consultant shall assist in the review of the bids and make a recommendation for award of the Contract. The work is to be coordinated with the Battery A-Grit Improvements Project.
